INDIRECT AND INDUCED SPENDING

NAS Fallon's total economic impact in the region is greater than the direct spending on payroll, goods and services, and contracts. This is because money spent by NAS Fallon and its personnel is spent again in the region by local businesses and their employees to purchase goods and services from other local businesses, who in turn hire more employees, etc. This "multiplier effect" is modeled as indirect and induced effects of direct NAS Fallon spending, and is reflected in the total economic impact results shown on the back of this brochure.

NAS Fallon is a major contributor to Churchill County, providing economic stimulus in the form of good-paying jobs, demand for housing and consumer products, expenditures for supplies and operational support services, and related economic activities that ripple through a wide range of economic sectors.
